

My Book of God

Unit 7

Lesson 83 - Danny's Chocolate Bar

Aims

- * To learn that we should never take things from a shop without paying
- * To learn the importance of telling the truth

Materials

- * "Danny's Chocolate Bar" from The Toddlers Bedtime Story Book by V. Gilbert Beers
- * A picture from the story to colour
- * Picture cards of the story
- * Items to use in a play shop (cash register, play money, play grocery items)
- * coloured pencils

Lesson Outline

1. Introduction
 2. Story & Discussion
 3. Activities - play memory game, retell the story, worksheet
 4. Review the aims
 5. Prayer

1) Introduction

Talk about going shopping for food at the supermarket and all the nice things we see on the shelves.

- Do you like going shopping?
- What do you like your parents to buy for you?
- What don't you like?
- Who likes chocolate?
- What kind of chocolate?

Today's story is about a mummy and her son, Danny, who went shopping one day in a supermarket

2) Story & Discussion

- * Read the story about Danny and the Chocolate bar
- * What did Danny do that was wrong? Why was he sad? What did Danny say to the man at the supermarket? Why is he happy now?

Two important points

1. We must never take things that are not ours
2. When we do things wrong it is important to be honest

3) Activities

- * Retell the story - Show the picture cards. Ask the children to put them in the correct order. Ask them to retell the story in their own words.
- * Play shop - Play a shop game using the cash register, play money, play grocery items. Make sure you always pay for what you take.
- * Worksheet - Children colour a picture from the story

* Memory game - Play the memory game using pictures from the story.

4) Review the aims

- * To learn that we should never take things from a shop without paying
- * To learn the importance of telling the truth

5) Prayer

- * Say a prayer to thank God for supermarkets where we buy food and never to take things that are not ours, without paying

Danny's Bar of Chocolate

Mummy paid for the groceries. She picked up the grocery bags. Danny walked behind her.

Then Danny saw a bar of chocolate. He wanted it. So Danny picked it up. He put it in his pocket.

Danny felt sad all the way home. He knew that he had something wrong.

“You’re so quiet, Danny,” said Mummy. “Is something wrong?” Danny turned away from Mummy. He did not want to look at her.

“Something IS wrong,” said Mummy. “Please tell me so I can help you.” Then Danny showed Mummy the chocolate.

“Oh, Danny, did you get this at the supermarket?” Mummy asked. Danny looked at Mummy sadly. “Yes,” he said.

“Then we must go back to the supermarket,” said Mummy. “You must give this back to the man there.”

“I’m sorry,” Danny said to the man. The man smiled.

“Would you like me to buy the chocolate for you?” Mummy asked Danny. “Please,” said Danny.

“I’m sorry you took the chocolate,” Mummy told Danny. “But, I’m glad you told me the truth. Thank you.” Then Danny shared his chocolate with Mummy.

“Would you like me to buy the chocolate for you?” Mummy asked Daddy. “Please,” said Danny.

“I’m sorry you took the chocolate,” Mummy told Danny. “But, I’m glad you told me the truth. Thank you.” Then Danny shared his chocolate with Mummy.
